Letter Of Recommendation

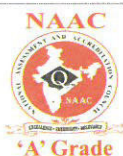

I know Mr. Jyotirmay Senapati as an under graduate student of Electronics and Communication Engineering Department at GIET, Gunupur from 2009-2013. Being a lecturer from Computer Science Department, I have handled some of his courses in C Programming and Operating System. While teaching, I found him to be a focused and sincere student. Despite the fact that, C-Language was completely new to him, he still managed to score impressively well.

Although being an Electronics student, I found him highly gifted in the domain of Computer Science. His problem analyzing and logical solving skills are an added advantage to his existing skill sets. He scored well in all the computer science papers as compared to his fellow branch-mates. He proved his practical know- know in the various computer science lab projects by securing a high score in his practical sessions.

Jyotirmay had also participated in various programming competitions held under the department of Computer Science during the annual technical fest. Being an outstanding student throughout his under graduation, he received a job offer from TCS as a software developer.

He is a jovial person with a good heart and always ready to help others. He has always been appreciated for his helpful nature and communication skills by his professors and peers alike. Having such a personality, and backed with various skills, I strongly recommended him for his admission to graduate studies in your prestigious institution. I take this opportunity to wish him all the best for his future endeavors and would be glad to answer any further queries with this regard.
